

We are the Great Turning is a podcast club for a group of people to move through the Work that Reconnects practice, as developed by Joanna Macy. It is an opportunity to sit together and discuss all that is happening in our world in this moment of time with vulnerability, grace, and action. It is used to explore both our gratitude and our grief so that we can be effective in creating solutions from an emotional, spiritual, and communal space.

“The Work That Reconnects helps people discover and experience their innate connections with each other and the self-healing powers of the web of life, transforming despair and overwhelm into inspired, collaborative action.”

– Joanna Macy

To do this, we will follow the We are the Great Turning podcast by listening to each episode together as well as the bonus episodes that move us through facilitated dialogue or guided meditation. There are 10 episodes in total, the first of which I will invite you to listen to before we meet. The remaining 9 we will do over the course of 3-4 gatherings that last 3 hours each. Attending each gathering is important for the group. This work is not only a commitment of time but a commitment to yourself and to the group. It will kick up emotions and generate inspiration.

My role is one of a host. I will not be facilitating the practice but rather creating the container to listen to the recordings. I will make sure we stay in rhythm of the time we have together and ensure the space is accessible and comfy. Otherwise, we co-create the conversation and explore together. Sounds good and juicy, right?!

If you are interested or just curious, direct message me on Signal or email me at kkanney@gmail.com. If you're a hell yes, share with me if you prefer Tuesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays or Sundays and what 3 hour blocks work best for you. I will do my best to make it work for everyone, with an understanding that time coordination is difficult and imperfect.

There is so much happening that understandably elicits anger, fear, and hopelessness. There is also so much capacity within us to honor those feelings, imagine creatively, and build community. We will definitely do all of it in this group. I can't wait to do it with you.

Love, Kim